DSF Membership in the U.S. Market

The U.S. Stewardship Commitment

Launched through the Innovation Center for U.S Dairy, The U.S. Dairy Stewardship Commitment is a social responsibility pledge for the U.S. market. Dairy companies that adopt the Commitment are recognized as DSF members.

The Stewardship Commitment is grounded in strong programs and standards focused on continuous improvement against shared social, environmental and economic priorities. It provides a voluntary means by which the U.S. dairy community can document and demonstrate collective progress in important areas like animal care, environmental stewardship, traceability, and community contributions. Participating companies agree to specific terms of adoption, including working collaboratively with diverse stakeholders through the Dairy Sustainability Alliance®. Retailers, food service and other dairy customers can endorse and use the Stewardship Commitment to demonstrate their suppliers' sustainability efforts and share dairy's story with consumers. Currently, companies representing over 74% of U.S. milk production have aligned around and voluntarily adopted the Stewardship Commitment through the Innovation Center for U.S. Dairy.

To demonstrate U.S. contributions to sustainable dairy, the Innovation Center serves as a DSF aggregating member to collect and report national data on behalf of the entire U.S. market. For company-specific recognition of DSF membership, companies that adopt the Stewardship Commitment are recognized DSF members and listed below.
